

stage. stage." stained stairs steadily steps sticks, stood strand strips stroll struck students such summer surged sweat, Sweating table take tang teenage that that that that that That that?" The the the The the The the the the the the the The the the the the the the the the the the the the the
the the the the the the The The the the The the the the the the the The
the the the The the the the the the the The their them them then then there, they they They think think," this this those threatening through through through tight tight, time. tinged to to to to to to to to to to to to to to touched trespasser," try-outs. twirling uniform. uniform. uniform. until up usually vodka. voice void. waist. walked wall. wanting was was was was was was was was was was was wasn't watching we're wearing wedding were were were were were were. weren't what What when when when where which White who wing wings. with with with with with with wood wood wood world's would would would would would wrestled year year, yellow you you you you, you, [Greg, I realize now that the story's too short. I had mixed up character count & word count while I was pacing myself. I wrote the story tight, and now it wouldn't work to go back and puff it up. But you can probably right a 2,000 word vignette off 700 random words as easily as off 2,000, so that's OK, right?]

-Jonathan Tweet

.sig Dreaming is the process of using insufficient sensory data as the basis for a fiction. The fiction draws primarily on your instincts, memories, and emotions. In other words, it's essentially like waking consciousness.
